WEATHER REPORT

FAIR TODAY; SUNDAY, FAIR AND WARMER.

At Proctorville, O., two boys were killed and several wounded by the explosion of an old cannon.

The Neapolitans

Packed to the doors with nearly 800 people, "The Neapolitans," musicians and singers and Italian troubadours, charmed and delighted a big Maysville audience last evening at the High School auditorium. Every seat was taken and there were many extra chairs.

These are classical artists and their renditions as a combined orchestra and chorus was superior to anything seen or heard in Maysville.

The fine soloists, flute, piccolo, violin, cello, tenor and soprano in their harmonious numbers were perfect and called forth delighted applause and repeated encores.

Sigmar Mario, tenor, and Mlle. Trevette, soprano, in their duet captured 800 spellbound hearers.

Uncle Bob

The "Uncle Bob" to be placed in commission as one of Maysville's fire fighting machines is a beauty and up-to-date in every respect. The following inscriptions on metal plates, together with the historic old Neptune bell, will occupy prominent places and be conspicuous features of the new machine:

Through the good offices of Horatio Flicklin This bell was made part of the equipment of the "Uncle Bob."

As a memento to ROBERT FICKLIN, Sr.

The life and activities of this grand old man are closely interwoven with the history of this city. He was a typical gentleman of the old school, and took a conspicuous part in public, municipal and philanthropic affairs, and was the acknowledged Father of Maysville's Volunteer Fire Department.

Born, August 6th, 1802.

Died, February 6th, 1887.

MRS. ASENATH C. POLLITT

Mother of Mr. B. B. Pollitt Passes Away at Richmond, Ind.

Mr. B. B. Pollitt received a telegram last night announcing the death of his mother, Mrs. Asenath C. Pollitt at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Dickson of Richmond, Ind.

She is also survived by another son, Ralph C. Pollitt of Brookfield, Mo. The funeral arrangements have not been made but in the event she is not buried in Indiana, interment will take place at Olivet Cemetery near Rectorville, this county, at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mr. Pollitt left this morning for Richmond.

ENGINEER LEMON

Killed Near Paris When His Engine Turned Over

Last night about 9 o'clock Engineer James Lemon, aged about 41 years, and formerly of this city, was instantly killed at the Paris Junction on the L. & N.

His train, fast express No. 32, North bound and three hours late, ran into an open switch near Paris, striking several cars on the siding loaded with telegraph poles, overturning the engine and crushing the life out of Lemon.

Fireman Hand was seriously scalded. No other fatalities.

Engineer Lemon resided in Covington with his family.

Mrs. Lemon is a sister of Mrs. Robert L. Mowbray of this city.

Petticoats At All Prices

If you want a good serviceable skirt for hard winter wear, you will find precisely your need in our splendid line of black mercerized or near silk petticoats for $1. Our stock of Knit Petticoats at 50c, 75c and $1 is now complete. Each price includes both solid colors and fancy bordered skirts. In the Petticoat Department you will also find some pretty new arrivals in black and colored messaline and chiffon taffeta at $2.50 and $2.98.

The Winter Cottons

Flannelette and Ginghams. Cotton of course, but the soft fleeciness of the former and the rich colorings of the latter suggest the warmth and comfort of all wool fabrics. Pretty solid colors and fancies in both materials. Only the best grades admitted to our stock, but the price is kept at the 10c level.

Another 10c cotton fabric, that looks like wool many times its price is our 1912-13 line of Princess Cashmere. The twilled face adds to the wear, the teazled back to the warmth, and the French flannel patterns to the beauty of this always popular material.

Coats and Suits in Battalions

With such a stock we ought to sell every woman who comes to "look." And the fact that we do, proves the rightness of our styles and prices. Mr. Hunt is still in personal touch with the New York market and is constantly sending attractive additions to our Ready-Wear Department. Not only Coats and Suits but new Waists, Skirts and Dresses are coming every week. We have a great deal to interest you. Come in.

FOR SERVING TARTAR SAUCE PROPER DEGREE OF NEGLECT

Idea Put Into Use by One Hostess Would Seem to Have Many Good Points.

A good idea for the serving of tartar sauce of mayonnaise is suggested by one enterprising housewife. She cuts a lemon in half, cleanse out the inside thoroughly and then fills the halves with the sauce. She serves one to each guest. When fish or salmon is served the little lemon cups are passed around the edge of the platter and one is taken by each guest. In this way the sauce is kept firm and strong instead of melting into a liquid when put on a hot plate.

For the home where guests are always arriving and departing there is nothing quite so nice for the windows as white cotton crepe. This may be simply hemmed or trimmed with braid fringe. For the dressers and bureaus covers of lace-lined plique will be found very satisfactory. This may be cut into the required size and the edges buttonholed in scallops. Two sets of curtains and covers should be kept on hand, one in use and a clean one besides.

FOR YOUNG GIRL

An effective little house dress this, made in Nile green cashmere. It has a Maygar bodice trimmed at neck with embroidered galloon, which is shaped to fit; it is also taken down in a "V" and trims sleeves and forms waistband.

The skirt is eased to this. Materials required 2 1/4 yards cashmere 44 inches wide, 2 1/4 yards galloon, 1/2 yards buttons.

Vogue of Black Satin. There is no sign of black satin going out of fashion. The gowns in black satin possess a fascination which is not equalled in fancy silks, or is this fabric too somber, for it may be relieved by white lace or mantua or two-inch bands of white muslin, producing an effect of simplicity that is very appealing.

Red is worn. Deep red shades are becoming more to the front than was anticipated earlier in the season.

JUST MUSING

A girl's estimate of a town is based on the number of eligible unmarried young men who live in it.

If you try to kiss a woman who probably will slap you, but she will not place any insurmountable obstacle in your way.

We understand most men pretty well. It is the one who re-enlists in the regular army that mystifies us.

The fellow who knows anything worth while usually keeps it to himself. The fellow who doesn't, tells everybody.

There are only 1,300 buffalo left in this country. But, unless your need for buffalo is greater than ours, that will be enough.

The quickest and easiest way to acquire a military title is to grow a whisker of the variety generally known as "the imperial."

The trouble with the man who stops smoking is that he appears to think the matter of sufficient interest to the public to justify him in giving a parade.

The bloodhound is a feature of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and figures more or less in fiction, but about all that can be said for it is that it eats less than a foxhound.

Buck Kirby, who likes to talk about his marital infelicities, says poverty's greatest drawback lies in the fact that a poor man can't send his wife away for the summer.

The neighbors are saying nice things of the Leroy Featheringhams, who recently celebrated their wedding anniversary. The neighbors say that, although the Featheringhams have been married fifteen years, they still are good friends—Jay E. House in the Cleveland Leader.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Usually the reason for a woman's trusting a man is there isn't any.

There are more theories about raising children than there are children.

For a photograph to be good of a woman nobody must be able to recognize it.

The only heavy money bags are when you are carrying them for somebody else.

Knowing that you are old seems to take more sense than anybody not young has.

A woman's idea of big gambling is taking chances on dressing against the weather.

A girl can do more damage with a pair of eyes than a man can with a pair of pistols.

When a woman can believe in her husband it's a sign she could in any other man who was.

If a man doesn't take his money home he spends it, and if he does it takes it home his family spends it.

The way a woman can tell everybody she meets is making remarks about her is maybe her petticoat shows behind.

The devil always knocks off work when politicians take the field for the people, because he knows they will do his work just as well as he can.

THE LITTLE ONES

Poor souls!

They're a hard time.

First, there's the teething.

At the best, they must suffer.

At the worst, it's too awful to consider.

One thing, they need attention every minute.

They should only be trusted with careful nurses.

The too young, too old or fitful nurses are all impossible.

Mothers should guard their own children rather than take risks.

Apricot Marmalade.

Ten pounds of apricots, after having been pitted and peeled; seven pounds of sugar, one large pineapple or two small ones, half a cup of blanched almonds chopped, one-fourth cup of apricot seeds chopped, the juice of four lemons. Put over a very slow fire. Stir often. Cook until the consistency of jelly.

DEMAND FOR HEAVY HORSES CONTINUES GOOD AT ALMOST PROHIBITIVE PRICES

Enormous Number of Auto-Trucks Not Crowding Animals Out of Business as Many Are Led to Believe—Number Increased From 13,000,000 to 21,000,000 in Decade.

Profitable Animals on Any Farm.

By JOSEPH MONTGOMERY, Secretary of Minnesota Stallion Registration Board.

Never in the history of the draft horse has the future appeared so promising to breeders as now, despite the statements of leading speaker at the annual meeting of the State Veterinarians' association at Minneapolis that the automobile and automobile truck were driving it out of business. There is no reason, in the light of statistics, why the doom of the draft horse should be spelled by the automobile and auto-truck.

Farmers in Minnesota need not fear to grow more horses. If they are large, sound, and serviceable, they will always demand the highest prices. The horse industry is founded on a permanent basis, and has no reason to conflict with the automobile industry in any way.

Though the enormous number of auto-trucks in the cities might lead one to believe that they were crowding the draft horse out of business, actual figures do not prove it.

Statistics in the office of the Minnesota stallion registration board show that the number of sires used in this state for horse-breeding has increased from 3,544, May 1, 1910, to 4,445, May 1, 1912. During the same period the number of registered draft sires has increased 35 per cent, there being over 1,150 in Minnesota. This is an excellent guide to conditions of the industry in this state and throughout the country.

Never in the history of the Chicago and St. Louis markets, the two largest ones in the United States, has the demand been so keen or the prices so high for high class horses of all types, especially the superior draft type. Statistics from the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry show that the number of horses in this country has increased from 13,500,000 to 21,500,000 in the past decade. The value of all horses in this country has increased from $15 to $115 in the same period. This has occurred despite the increase in the use of automobiles.

First class draft horses have been almost prohibitive in price this year, because of the great demand for them, and a team of drafters has often measured up to 100 parts; lard, 25 parts; beef suet, 23 parts; oleate of mercury, 2 parts. The suet, if bought from the butcher, will have to be rendered over a fire and poured into the lard while it is warm, and then stir in the mercury and oleate of mercury. Use a table knife or spoon to do the stirring. Do not put hands into it. It should be too stiff to easily apply as an ointment, thin with a little cotton seed oil. All ingredients should be weighed rather than measured. Put it away in small vialine bottles or boxes well covered, and will keep for months. This ointment will rid poultry of head lice and Texas fleas. For other mites and lice rub it in well about the ruff below the vent and under the wings. It will not only kill the live vermin, but destroy the nits as well.

$100 REWARD.

The PUBLIC LEDGER will pay $100 in gold to The Lexington Herald, the Dover News or the Cynthiana Democrat, if they will prove that there is a single empty market basket in this country which is the result of Republican policies or the Protective Tariff.

As we said before the election: There are no empty market baskets now except those made empty by drunkenness, misfortune or Democratic policies.

A man carrying a baby looks as much out of place as a mule hitched to a top buggy.

The Democrats are entitled to one chicken dinner after dining regularly on crow for lo, these many years.

Most of the "handwriting on the wall" is done by boys, and none of it is fit for reproduction in a family newspaper.

The bloodhound figures more or less in fiction, and is one of the permanent investitures of Uncle Tom's Cabin, but about all that can be said for it is that it eats less than a fox hound.

There, however, is this to say in palliation of the matrimonial alliances of the New York "400." Stripped of floss and flummery, every mother looks with favor upon the suitor who can pay the highest price for her daughter.

Governor Wilson and Governor Marshall are a pair of distinguished, clean, able and admirable men and their administration should be a pleasing and successful one throughout. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Marshall both are eminently qualified to lead society at the White House and shine forth as brilliant women. The Misses Wilson, too, will add much to the gaiety of the Democratic administration.

U. S. STILL A PROTECTIVE TARIFF COUNTRY

In all the debatable states the story of the Democratic victory is one of plurality and not majorities. There was never the possibility of a third-term triumph, and those Republicans whose efforts at Chicago for the nomination of a compromise candidate were thwarted by Colonel Roosevelt may draw what consolation they can from their vindication.

Meanwhile, talking of disbandment or disintegration is more futile than dangerous. The Republican party is more than an organization, it is an organized principle. Is the fallacy of free trade more vital and more enduring than the doctrine of protection? That the free-trade fallacy can persist, the persistence of the Democratic party, with no other stock in trade than that one falsity, is evidence.

The country, as the combined Taft and Roosevelt vote will show, has not approved free trade at this election. A protective tariff is still supported by the majority of Americans, who, with the menace of a third term removed, will again come together in protest of and resistance to the destructive policy of the Democratic party in fiscal administration. So long as a free-trade party lives a protection party cannot cease to be, even though it may sometimes divide, in the face of the enemy, on false and extraneous issues.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A NATURAL OBJECT-LESSON IN HEREDITY.

The long-looked-for history of the Kallikak family has at last come from the press of the publishers. Under the auspices of the Training School for Feeble-Minded at Vineland, N. J., Dr. Henry H. Goddard has investigated and compiled the results of his work in the heredity of this most remarkable family. During Revolutionary days, the first Martin Kallikak (the name is fictitious), descended from a long line of good English ancestry, took advantage of a feeble-minded girl. The result of their indulgence was a feeble-minded son. This son married a normal woman. They in turn produced five feeble-minded and two normal children. Practically all of the descendants of these defectives have been traced as well as those of the two normals.

From both normal and defective descendant's of this union came a long line of defective stock. There were 480 in all. Of these thirty-six were illegitimate, thirty-three sexually immoral, twenty-four confirmed alcoholics and three epileptics. Eighty-two died in infancy, three were criminal, eight kept houses of ill fame and 143 were distinctly feeble-minded. Only forty-six were found who were apparently normal. The rest are unknown or doubtful. But the scion of the good family who started this long line of delinquent and defective progeny is also responsible for a strain of an entirely different character. After the Revolutionary war was over, he married a Quaker girl of good ancestry and settled down to live a respectable life after the traditions of his forefathers. From this legal union with a normal woman there have been 496 descendants. All of these except two have been of normal mentality. The exceptions were cases of insanity, presumably inherited through marriage with an outside strain in which there was a constitutional psychopathic tendency. In all the 496 there is not an instance of feeble-mindedness. The off-spring descended from this side of the house have universally occupied positions in the upper walks of life. They have never been criminals or ne'er-do-wells. On the other hand, there has not been a single instance of exceptional ability among the descendants of the first Martin Kallikak and the feeble-minded girl. Most of these descendants have failed to rise above the dead level of mediocrity; indeed, most of them have fallen far below even this minimum standard. This striking study in heredity is commented on at length in a recent number of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

WHEN WOODROW IS PRESIDENT

Chicago Tribune:

"Gentlemen," said the President as he entered the former cabinet room at the White House, "we will hold chapel exercises earlier this morning than usual, as I wish to attend the football game between the seniors and freshmen—that is, between the Senators and Congressmen. Kindly give your college yell."

The members of the White House faculty immediately sprang to their feet and, led by the Professor of State, shouted:

"Rab, rab, ras!
Rab, rab, ras!
White House!
White House!
U. S. A.!"

"Very good, gentlemen," said the President, smiling; but before he could say anything more pandemonium broke loose outside.

"Rab, rab, ras!
We're the best that lives!
Kill 'em, soak 'em!
Kick 'em, choke 'em!
House of Rep-re-sent-a-tives!"

"I must ask the dean of the undergraduate department," said the President calmly, "to again inform the young gentlemen in his charge to confine their college yells to their own building and dormitories and the campus adjoining thereto. The Capitol has been especially set apart for the seniors and juniors, or, I should say, the Senate and the House of Representatives—and they must not encroach on the graduate department. I would further remark—"

At this moment there came another fierce yell that almost shattered the windows in the White House. It was:

"Hoop, hoop, hoop!
Peaches and cream!
Senate! Senate!
Nineteen thirteen!"

"I wish to explain," said the Vice-President, who acted as dean of the senior class, "that the boys are having their annual bat and cane rush to decide whether or not during the present term the freshman—or Congressmen, rather, shall have the right to carry canes and bats on college spirit as much as our esteemed President, I must say I think we should call a halt."

"Gentlemen," said the President, "I will take this matter up with the student body at chapel tomorrow morning. But I wish to do nothing hastily. I want all our young senators and congressmen to go back to their homes with the happiest memory of Washington, their dear old alma mater. But I will be obliged to say that while college spirit will be heartily fostered, we must insist on more work being done, and I shall emphasize the fact that I will not permit the senior class to graduate next spring unless they pass the new tariff schedule."

"Gentlemen, you will now arise and join in our college song."

The professors arose, and, led by the Pres.

ident, sang with great heartiness:

"O how we love our teacher,
And how we love our school,
And help him out with all our might
This country far to rule."

would be well to issue a warning to the undergraduate body not to indulge in unnecessary roughness."

"I took the attitude I did in the matter, gentlemen of the faculty," said the professor of the treasury, "because, as I came down Pennsylvania Avenue this morning I observed some fifteen or twenty more congressmen docking two senators in a horse trough. It is my belief that the freshmen should be severely lectured, either by the President or one of the faculty."

"But I think," interposed the professor of the navy, "that the Senators are much to blame for the roughness of the congressmen. I have noticed that when the new congressional class comes to Washington the upper class men treat them without mercy. I noticed this morning on Q street a half hundred senators amusing themselves with some new congressmen who had just come in from Western states."

"One crowd of senators surrounded a freshman congressman and was making him read the Dingley bill clear through, a most cruel act, at which I protested. Another group of brutal senators was compelling a young congressman to listen to the speech of William Jennings Bryan spoken by a phonograph, and still more senators where compelling another new congressman to stand on one foot on a sharp

GREAT MASS OF PROOF

REPORTS OF 30,000 CASES OF KIDNEY TROUBLE. SOME OF THEM IN MAYSVILLE

Each of some 6,000 newspapers of the United States is publishing from week to week, names of people in its particular neighborhood, who had need and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder troubles and urinary disorders. This mass of proof includes over 30,000 testimonials. Maysville is no exception. Here is one of the Maysville cases.

Mr. John Wallingford, 108 Commerce street, Maysville, Ky., says: "I am glad to confirm the testimonial I gave in 1900, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Several of my neighbors have been cured of kidney trouble by this remedy, and a member of my family was also cured of a serious case of kidney complaint by its use, after other medicine had failed. Every once in a while I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at J. J. Wood & Son's Drug Store, and use them. In this way I keep my kidneys in proper working order and ward off any kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

OLD LLOYD FARM

FOR SALE

—ON—

The 23d Day of November,

At 2 o'clock p.m. we will offer for sale to the highest bidder the old Lloyd farm of

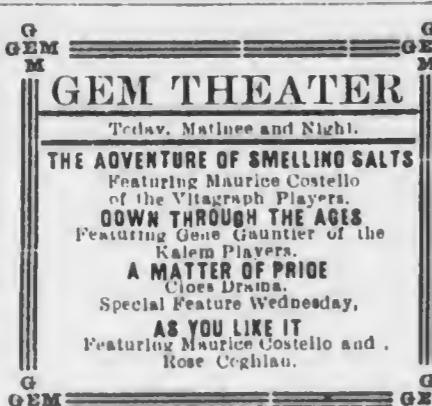

256 Acres

On the Salem Turnpike, one and a half miles Southeast of Germantown, in Mason county. This farm has been in continuous possession of the Lloyd family since 1832. It has had careful management, has always been a famous tobacco farm and is now in a high state of cultivation.

This farm can be divided to advantage and will be offered for sale in parcels and as a whole. There is a good two-story dwelling, a tenant house, all necessary outbuildings, barn room for 25,000 pounds of tobacco, a never-failing and well-distributed supply of stock water, and fencing in good condition. The place is one and a half miles from churches and schools on a good turnpike that leads to the state door. This farm pays a good per cent. Tamed on the tenant system and is desirable either as an investment or a home.

For further information apply to Dan H. Lloyd, Germantown, Ky.

AT FRANKFORT

Conference to Decide Means of Pushing Franchise Tax Suits Against Corporations

Justus Goebel sent the following telegram to ninety-three County Judges outside of Central Kentucky, urging them to attend the meeting called to be held at Frankfort today to discuss ways and means for pushing in the courts the suits which have been filed by the State against a number of corporations for franchise taxes.

"The Judges' and attorneys' meeting at Frankfort, November 8th, will be epochmaking in the history of this State. The interest of every taxpayer of your county is involved and demands that you and your County Attorney attend without fail. Millions for school and other purposes are at stake and must be fought for."

TO FIGHT DISEASE

Campaigns Start in Three Sections of the State Under Health Board's Direction

Campaigns for the eradication of hookworm, typhoid fever and other preventable diseases will be undertaken under the direction of the State Board of Health next week in Jefferson, Breathitt and Butler counties, the campaign to continue six weeks.

Dr. W. W. Richwood will conduct the campaign in Jefferson, Dr. I. A. Shirley of Winchester in Breathitt, and Dr. J. S. Lock of Barberville in Butler.

The board has discontinued the hookworm and pellagra work in the Eastern State Hospital, preferring to conduct the campaigns in the counties until the weather prevents, when the work will be resumed in the hospitals.

The State Board of Health will meet Wednesday, probably in Frankfort.

The Youth's Companion For 1913

The Youth's Companion appeals to every interest of family life, from housekeeping to athletics. It begins with stories of youthful vim and vigor, with articles which disclose the secrets of successful play in the great games, with charming tales of life at the girl's college. The Companion does not overrule these readers when they have entered the more serious paths of life. Mothers will welcome the page for little children and the weekly doctor's article. Fathers will find the important news of the day. It is, and not as it is rumored to be. The entire household will appreciate the sketches which touch gently on common foibles or caricature eccentricities. In short, for less than 4 cents a week, the Companion will take into the home clear entertainment, pure inspiration, fine ideals, interest of knowledge.

Names rarely seen in tables of contents will be found in the Companion's announcement for 1913, which will be sent upon request, with samples of the paper, to those not familiar with it.

Every new subscriber for 1913 will receive free The Companion window transparency and calendar for 1913 in rich, translucent colors, the most beautiful of all Companion conveniences. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkley street, Boston, Mass. New subscriptions received at this office.

SYNOPSIS.

Major Lawrence, son of Judge Lawrence of Virginia, whose wife was a Lee, is sent on a perilous mission by Gen. Washington to the British at Valley Forge. Dressed as a British uniform Lawrence arrives within the enemy's lines. The Major attends a great fete and sees the "Lady of the Blended Rose" from mob. He later meets the girl at a brilliant ball. Trouble is stirred over her, and Lawrence is urged by his partner, Mistress Moore (the Lady of the Blended Rose), to make his escape. Lawrence is detected as a spy by Captain Grant and is made prisoner by an English and two American men who lock him in a strong cell. Peter advises Lawrence not to attempt to escape as "some one would shoot him." The girl's presence adds mystery to the complication of circumstances. Lawrence again meets the Lady of the Blended Rose, who informs him that Captain Grant and his men were in command of the party that captured him. The captive is thrust into a dark underground chamber where Captain Grant and a search of the premises. After digging his way out, Lawrence finds the place deserted. Evidence of a battle and a dead man are found. Captain Grant and his men are captured, and Lawrence is held a prisoner of war.

CHAPTER XX.—Continued.

I comprehended the plan in a flash. She had discovered a sentry money would buy; to lead the others away long enough to effect my escape, Peter had taken to the woods with a gun. Whether he escaped or was captured, the delay would be short. With the knowledge came action. I bore the unresisting Ranger to the floor, hurling down the tray of food he bore in a mass of broken crockery, and hound him hand and foot, leaving the fellow lying across the open doorway. He was without arms, except his heavy gun, which I left beside him. An instant I paused to ask a question, holding aloft the lantern so as to see his face.

"Now, man, speak quick; you were given some word for me? Some instructions how I was to get away?"

"Sure; but ye drew those cords tight! You are to go upstairs, out the front door, and turn to the right; there's a horse in the thicket beyond the summer house. Damnation, loose that ankle rope, will ye?"

"I gave it a twich, but felt little compulsion for the fellow, nad ran up the steps, leaving the lantern below. I knew the way even in the dark, and experienced little trouble in finding my passage. I met with no interference, and heard no sound, the house seemingly deserted. Only as I opened the front door could I hear distant, irregular firing to the northwest. Assured that no guard remained, I hung myself recklessly over the porch rail onto the smooth turf of the lawn. The dim outline of the little summer house could be discerned not thirty feet distant, and I started toward it unhesitatingly. I had made half the distance when a horse neighed suddenly to my right, and, startled at the sound, I fell flat, creeping cautiously forward into the shadow of a low bush. I had risen to my knees, believing the animal must be the one left there for my use, when I heard the growl of a voice, a man's voice, from out the summer house.

For an instant I could not locate the sound nor distinguish it clearly; then a sentence cut the air so distinctly that I recognized the speaker. "Grant! What was he doing here? Had we delayed too long? Had Fagin's pursuers returned? If so, why was he there in the summer house, and with whom was he conversing? I crouched back listening, afraid to move.

"I saw the gleam of your white skirt as I rounded the house," he exclaimed. "By Gad, I thought the horse was going to bolt with me. Fine bit of luck this, finding you out here alone. What's going on out yonder?"

"There was an attack on the horse guard, and Mr. Seldon is in pursuit. But how does it happen you have returned alone? Has anything occurred to my father?"

I judged from the sound that he tested himself before answering, and there was a hesitancy sufficiently noticeable, so as to cause the girl to ask anxiously:

"Has he not been injured?"

"Who, the colonel?" with a short laugh. "No fear of that while pursuing those fellows; they ride too fast, and are scattered by now all the way from here to the Atlantic. Probably a squad of the same gang out there fighting Seldon. Trouble with the colonel is he takes the affair too seriously; imagined he is actually on the trail, and proposes to remount out all night. I became tired of such foolishness and rode back."

"You mean you left? Deserted?"

"Oh, hardy that," lazily. "You see I was sent out with a detachment to ride down the Lewiston road. I merely left my sergeant in command and turned my horse's head this way. I can be back by morning, and I wanted to see you."

"To see me, Captain Grant! You disobeyed my father's orders to ride back and see me? I hardly appreciate the honor."

"Oh, I suppose not," his tone grown suddenly bitter. "But I am here just the same, and propose carrying out my intention. What do you think I am made of—wood? You treat me as though I possessed no feelings to be hurt. See here, Claire, don't draw away from me like that. What has got into you lately? You have led me on a merry chase all winter in Philadelphia, but now you have even dared to taunt me to my face, and in the presence of your father. Do you suppose I am the kind to stand for that? What is the matter, girl? Who has come between us? Is it that rascally rebel? No; you stay where you are, and answer me. This is what I came back alone for, to find out."

She was upon her feet, and I could even see her hand clasping a lattice of the summer house.

"Why do you ask this? What right have you? There was never a promise between us."

"The understanding has existed for ten years; never denied until now," he protested hotly. "You knew I loved you; I've fought a dozen men on your account!"

"True enough," she broke in, "you have challenged every gentleman who has dared address me. Did you think such swashbuckling was going to win my heart? Any girl possessing self-respect would revolt at such methods. Whatever affection I may have felt for you as a boy has been driven from me by these actions. You wanted a slave, a servant, not a companion, and it is not in Mortimer blood to yield to every whim, to every crack of the whip. I never loved you, never comprehended I did. I tried to be obedient, endeavored to like you to please my father, but this past winter has so thoroughly revealed your real character that I will pretend no longer."

"My character! We have known each other from childhood. I know well enough what has made the difference in you."

"Indeed!"

"Yes, indeed; it's that damned Continental spy."

"It has been some one all along, according to your theory—any gentleman who has shown me ordinary kindness. You have called out Captain Kincaide, Lieutenant Matheson, Major Lang, and others, just to prove your ownership of me. You have made me the laughing stock of Philadelphia. Now it pleases you to select Major Lawrence with whom to associate my name. Because he danced with me once you feel justified in quarreling with him in my presence, in gondola him into fighting you. It was the act of a cowardly bully. Whatever respect I may once have had for you, Captain Grant, has been dissipated this past winter."

"Can you tell me it is not Lawrence?"

"I could tell you, and very plainly, but I refuse to be questioned."

"Well, by Gad! I know without asking," and he sprang to his feet, gripping her hand. "You've helped that fellow against me from the start. I'll put up with it no longer. Come back here tonight desperate, prepared to resort to any measures. I meant to give you a chance, and, by heaven! I have. Do you think I am the sort of man you can play with? If I can have you only by force then it is going to be that. Oh, don't try to pull away! I've got you now just as I wanted you—alone! Your father is not here, and that fool Seldon is busy enough out yonder. There is not even a guard to interfere. Do you know what I mean to do?"

She made no answer, but her silence seemed to fan his anger.

"Sulky, are you? Well, I'll tell you just the same. There's a preacher living at the crossroads—you know him, that sniveling, long-faced Jenkins. He's a ranting rebel all right, but he'll do what I say, or I'll cut his heart out. You are going there with me tonight to be married. I'll put an end to these tantrums, and by tomorrow you'll have come to your senses. Now will you go quietly, or shall I make you?"

"There was an attack on the horse guard, and Mr. Seldon is in pursuit. But how does it happen you have returned alone? Has anything occurred to my father?"

I judged from the sound that he tested himself before answering, and there was a hesitancy sufficiently noticeable, so as to cause the girl to ask anxiously:

"Has he not been injured?"

"Who, the colonel?" with a short laugh. "No fear of that while pursuing those fellows; they ride too fast, and are scattered by now all the way from here to the Atlantic. Probably a squad of the same gang out there fighting Seldon. Trouble with the colonel is he takes the affair too seriously; imagined he is actually on the trail, and proposes to remount out all night. I became tired of such foolishness and rode back."

"You mean you left? Deserted?"

"Oh, hardy that," lazily. "You see I was sent out with a detachment to ride down the Lewiston road. I merely left my sergeant in command and turned my horse's head this way. I can be back by morning, and I wanted to see you."

"To see me, Captain Grant! You disobeyed my father's orders to ride sought. He struggled to one knee, wrenching his arms free, but went down again as my fist cracked against his jaw. Then it was arm to arm, muscle to muscle, every sinew strained as we clung to each other, striving for mastery. He fought like a fiend, gouging and snapping to make me break my hold, but I only clung the closer, twisting one hand free, and driving my fist into his face. At last I gripped his pistol, wrenched it forth, and struck with the butt. He sank back, limp and breathless, and I rose to my knees looking down into the upturned face. Almost at the moment my hand touched my shoulder.

"Is he dead? Have you killed him?"

"Far from it," I answered glibly. "He is merely stunned, and will revive presently, but with a sad headache. I would not have hit him, but he is a stronger man than I."

"Oh, you were justified. It was done to protect me. I knew you must be somewhere near."

"You were waiting for me?"

"Yes—no; not exactly that. I was in the summer house; it did not mean you should see me, but I wished to be sure of your escape; I—I—of course I was anxious."

"I can easily understand that, for you have assumed much risk—even ventured the life of the devoted Peter."

"Oh, no; you rate my devotion too high by far. Peter's life has not been endangered."

"But the guard told me he was the direct cause of all that firing beyond the ravine."

The starlight revealed the swift merriment in her eyes.

I was easily understand that, for you have assumed much risk—even ventured the life of the devoted Peter."

MAYSVILLE, KY.

Fifteen thousand persons on board fifty steamships on the Pacific Ocean received election returns by wireless Tuesday night.

Atlanta, Ga., Methodists within the last few months have opened up four handsome new Church buildings, the aggregate cost of which is reported, will exceed $200,000.

ELECTION ECHOES
Champ Clark was re-elected in Missouri.

Not a Republican Congressman was elected in Indiana.

Pennsylvania for the first time gives its electoral vote for a Democratic President.

For the first time since the Civil War St. Louis went Democratic in a Presidential campaign.

At Madison, Wisconsin, Senator LaFollette refused to make any statement on the election results.

Sergio Payne, famed for his tariff bill, was re-elected in New York in spite of the Wilson plurality.

Wilson carried Utica, N. Y., the late Vice President's home city, and Cincinnati, Taft's home city.

Kansas, Michigan, Arizona and Oregon have declared for woman's suffrage, but Wisconsin defeated it.

Bryan, Champ Clark, McCombie, Foss, Hammont, Woodrow and Henry are suggested for Wilson's Cabinet.

In Brown county, Ohio, Wilson received 3,451 votes, Taft 1651, Roosevelt 569; Cox, for Governor, 3,629, Brown 1,793, Garfield 482.

MILLION SHY

Of Popular Majority Over Taft and Roosevelt is Wilson

Although Woodrow Wilson was elected President of the United States in one of the greatest upheavals in the history of American politics, the vote shows that he was in reality minority President-elect. Wilson's popular plurality was estimated at 2,092,397 over Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Wilson's total seems to have been 6,756,500. However, the combined Roosevelt-Taft popular vote is 7,737,000. The total vote for President Taft and Col. Theodore Roosevelt was nearly 1,000,000 more than Governor Wilson's vote.

The Socialist party made large gains everywhere. Eugene V. Debs polled over 800,000 votes for President, which is a gain of nearly 100 per cent over the national Socialist vote four years ago.

FELT BAD ALL THE TIME

Sheehorn Lady Suffered a Great Deal, But is All Right Now.

Sheehorn, Ala.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Carrie May says: "A short time ago, I commenced to have weak spells and headaches. I felt bad all the time, and soon grew so bad I couldn't stay up. I thought I would die.

At last my husband got me a bottle of Cardul, and it helped me; so he got some more. After I had taken the second bottle, I was entirely well.

I wish every lady, suffering from womanly trouble, would try Cardul. It is the best medicine I know of. It did me more good than anything I ever used."

Cardul is a woman's tonic—a strengthening medicine for women, made from ingredients that act specifically on the womanly organs, and thus help to build up the womanly constitution to glowing good health.

As a remedy for woman's ills, it has a successful record of over 50 years.

Your druggist sells it. Please try it.

Got Jack Johnson's Goat

CHICAGO, November 8th.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, tonight occupies a cell in the County Jail due to his failure to furnish a $30,000 bond for his release on a charge of violating the Mann act.

As he left the Federal building handcuffed to Deputy Marshal Northrop, after a futile tries to not have his wrists manacled, Johnson seemed greatly dejected, but he said nothing.

In his extended fight for bond Johnson had tears, pleaded and offered cash bond in almost any amount.
